Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 09 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Most areas fine, warm and dry today.

Today:
Most areas will be fine and dry with some warm sunshine, best of the sunshine in the south and east. Western and northwestern UK will be cloudier with some rain about, mainly over parts of Northern Ireland and western Scotland.

Tonight:
A fine evening for many and then a mostly dry night. Some clear spells, but evening cloud in the west will spread into many parts overnight. Quite warm and muggy.

Thursday:
A fairly cloudy start for many but most areas brightening up to see some warm sunny spells. Staying cloudy for some western parts though.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
For many inland areas largely sunny, dry and very warm. It will be somewhat cooler in the far north, which will see more cloud and perhaps some rainfall at times.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.